Dear Hiring Team,

You are looking for someone who can build, not just manage. Someone who can unify Sales and Marketing under a single revenue vision, create the structures that make 2× or 3× growth repeatable, and stay close to execution without losing the strategic line. That is exactly the type of challenge I have navigated, repeatedly, over the past 20 years.

At EVA, I built the Customer Success department from scratch and drove +190% network revenue growth in two years across 70+ franchisees. At Prodigy Agency, I restructured the commercial organization and supported growth from 10 to 30 employees in under 12 months. Earlier in my career, I joined a 2-person startup on the verge of closure, turned it around, scaled it to 15 people, and contributed to a successful exit.

What draws me to Goodvest specifically is the mission. Sustainable finance and responsible investment are not abstract concepts for me, I have been actively managing my own portfolio with a strong ESG and responsible investing focus for years: assurance-vie, PER, sectoral allocation, impact measurement. I understand the product logic behind your offering, the investor conviction it requires, and the growing demand for financial solutions that align performance with responsibility. Walking into a conversation about Goodvest, I am not starting from zero.

I am also comfortable working in the ambiguity that comes with a scale-up at your stage. I do not wait for perfect conditions, I assess, decide, and adjust. I am direct, focused on outcomes, and experienced enough to know when to push and when to listen.

I am based in the Paris area, available immediately, and happy to discuss this role at your convenience. I would welcome the opportunity to show you how my profile maps to the specific challenges ahead for Goodvest.

Yours sincerely,

Julien Brochet
